

Alfie Flewitt

Represented by:

Rupert Stonehill

Alfie Flewitt is a London based screenwriter. Born and raised in the East Midlands, he's a recent graduate of the Screenwriting MA at the National Film and Television School whose work explores the intersection of masculinity and queerness across genres. Whilst at the NFTS he wrote on a number of live action and animation short films including the IRIS prize nominated Bleach, as well as acting as a BFI mentor for their 16-19 young writers scheme.
